SULZER LOSES FIRST FIGHT WITH ENEMIES

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 19.—By the unanimous vote of the high court of impeachment, Gov. Sulzer lost the first fight made by his counsel when the court declined to unseat Sens. Wagner, Frawley, Sanner and Ramsperger.

The decision followed a royal battle in which Judge D. Cady Herriek led the governor's forlorn hope of unseating his senatorial enemies, and Judge Alton B. Parker met the attack on behalf of the board of managers.

The court listened with marked attention to every word of the contest, and the fast action of Presiding Judge Cullen in ruling for immediate consideration, first, and then for sustaining the right of the senators, came as an electric shock.

Immediately after the vote was taken the clerk was directed to read the articles of impeachment.

Sen. Wagner, Sen. Elton R. Brown, the republican leader, and Judge Willard Bartlett, of the court of appeals, the committee appointed to draft the rules of procedure, had practically completed their work on Thursday night. Apart from the adoption of these rules, interest in Friday's proceedings was focused on the expected legal battle over the right of the challenged senators to sit as members of the court.

The defense contends that the members of the Frawley committee, having uncovered the evidence against the governor, should not be permitted to assume the dual role of prosecutor and judge. Although Sen. Brown is a member of the committee no objection was urged against him as he did not participate in the committee's activities.

The governor's attorneys refused to explain why they purported to challenge Sen. Wagner, and the opposing counsel said they were in the dark concerning it. The senator himself suggested that it might be claimed that he had assumed the prerogatives of the lieutenant governor, since the impeachment of Gov. Sulzer, but, he added, he had laid no claim to the office and had not attempted to discharge any of its functions.

Counsel for the assembly board of managers contend that precedent has established the right of the challenged senators to sit as members of the court.

The impeachment court as constituted today numbered 57, of whom 48 are senators, and nine judges of the court of appeals. A two-thirds majority of the court is required by the constitution to convict.

PRETTY PRINCESS SOPHIA KILLS SELF

Objection of Prince William to Union With Banker's Son Said to be Cause.

HEIDELBERG, Germany, Sept. 19.—Princess Sophia of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, a beautiful young woman unusually popular in Germany, committed suicide early Thursday morning. Her body, with a bullet wound in the temple, was found in her room in the palace of her father, Prince William.

The death of the princess was due to a love affair. She was engaged to Hans von Helldorf, the eldest son of the senior member of one of the most powerful banking houses in Germany. The reigning Grand Duke Prince Wm. Ernest strenuously prohibited the union unless the princess renounce all her titles and dignities. This she refused to do.

While the princess had been prevented from marrying von Helldorf, they had often been seen together at Heidelberg since the engagement was announced. It is not known whether the pair had resigned themselves to the decision of the grand duke, but von Helldorf, it is reported, started from Berlin for Heidelberg Wednesday.

No statement of any kind relative to the tragedy has been given out, and official confirmation of the suicide could not be obtained at Prince William's palace.

According to one of the palace employees the princess killed herself about 8 o'clock in the morning and a maid entering her apartment soon afterward came upon her dead body. The princess was only 25 years of age.

HUERTA QUARREL WITH CONGRESS; GAMBOA TO FRONT

President May Step Aside For Diaz But Will Be Power Behind Throne—Catholic Party May Endorse Gamboa.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—A serious quarrel, fostered by the dictatorial methods of Pres. Huerta, has broken out between the national executive and congress. After long and heated debate the chamber of deputies refused to confirm the appointment of Eduardo Tamariz, a member of the Catholic party, as minister of public instruction.

Approval of cabinet appointments is necessary under the constitution. Heretofore there has been no dissension and the present situation establishes a precedent. The vote against confirmation of Tamariz was 18 to 29. The Catholic party will probably control the next national election despite the efforts of Huerta to get the electoral ministry under his domination. The Catholic party will meet Sunday when it will probably designate Foreign Minister Gamboa as its choice for president.

Man Behind Throne. That Huerta is preparing to step out of the race for the Mexican presidency next month is indicated by the dispatches which have reached Washington within the past twelve hours. That Gen. Felix Diaz, if elected president, would be no more than a pawn for Huerta is taken for granted here. Huerta's present policy seems to be to surrender the place of power without surrendering the power itself and to how to the pressure of the American government while apparently defying it before his people. As head of the army Huerta always will remain the most powerful man in Mexico while he has a man supposedly weak, like Diaz, in the presidential chair.

Pres. Wilson believes it will be wise to keep Envoy Lind in Mexico until after the October elections, and although apparently he is not now continuing negotiations of any kind with the Mexican government it is thought they will be reopened as soon as Huerta makes clear the intention not to run for the presidency which now seems to be his plan.

LILLIES AEROPLANE WAS WORN OUT, SAYS EXPERT

Investigator From Wright Brothers' Looks Into Cause of Airman's Fall.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—An explanation of the death of Max Lillie, in a fall from his aeroplane at Galesburg, Ill. last Monday was made Friday by Grover C. Loening, of Dayton, special investigator for the Wright brothers. "Lillie was killed," said Loening, "because his biplane had deteriorated until the wood and metal could no longer stand the strain of flying. The machine was built at Lillie's school of aviation in St. Louis 18 months ago. The wood parts had lost their life. The hinges and pulleys were rusty from exposure. When Lillie took the air at Galesburg it was necessary to exert extra strength to operate the controls. This threw the machine off its balance. It would not even up when Lillie attempted to right it. It began falling almost as soon as he started."

A movement to pay the deficit in the superannuated ministers fund was started at the Indiana Methodist conference Thursday by Marvin Campbell of South Bend.

MAY ADVISE FELKER TO SET THAW FREE

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 19.—Councilor Noone, a member of the Felker council, is in favor of setting Harry Thaw free.

He said Friday that he had advised the governor to take plenty of time to look carefully into the case before making a decision.

"For my part I do not think this matter should be decided suddenly," he said. "Thaw's case is one of the most unusual this country has ever seen and we shall never in all probability see another like it. This poor fellow does act in an eccentric manner but that might be attributed to the strain under which he has been laboring."

"Think of it, five years of hounding and torture. Why, that's enough to make the most of men faving maniacs."

Lost Out in Race For Governor He Goes Back To Work in a Tunnel

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 19.—Robert T. Hodge, who, as progressive candidate for governor of Washington last fall, received over 80,000 votes, promised the voters that if defeated he would return to work in the coal mines, from whence he made his advent into politics. He was defeated. Hodge didn't go back to the coal mines, but got a job running a steam drill for the Milwaukee railroad tunnel in the Cascades.

Hodge's career in politics was meteoric. He was an ordinary coal miner at Black Diamond, Newcastle, and other mining towns in Washington for many years. Then he was appointed a deputy sheriff. Five years ago he announced his candidacy for sheriff of King county the largest county in the state. The politicians laughed at him. But "Bob" Hodge, a big healthy robust man with a big winning smile and a wonderful flow of native eloquence went into office by an overwhelming majority. He had been a sailor a pugilist and a common day laborer before, and he was a keen student of life. He made a wonderful race for governor but the odds were against him. Hodge has now returned to manual labor.

Price was sent up from Fort Wayne on a sentence of from one to eight years, but was paroled in July. He will now have to spend the rest of the eight years in prison.

Does South Bend Want An Eight Legged Cat as Starter For New Zoo?

If South Bend still had a zoo at Leeper park there would be a fine chance now to add some rare animals to the collection.

Word came from Elkhart Thursday that a man in that place had a cat. There was nothing strange about a man having a cat but when it went on to say that that feline had eight legs and two heads that was something else again.

In his letter the Elkhart man says he heard that South Bend wanted to buy some animals. Besides this eight-legged, two-headed cat he has two porcupines and two prairie dogs.

HOUSE SETS MONEY BILL ON WAY TO STATUTES 286-84

Put in Hands of Banking and Currency Committee in Senate, Where Hearings Are in Progress on Measure.

PASSED PRACTICALLY AS IN ORIGINAL FORM

Would Eliminate Present Bank Note System and Establish Twelve Federal Reserves to Issue Currency.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The complete revision of American banking and currency methods proposed in the democratic currency bill was started on its way to the statute books Thursday. By a vote of 286 to 84 the house passed the bill in practically the same form in which it was originally proposed. Twenty-four republicans and 14 progressives joined with the democrats in voting for the bill.

With this overwhelming house majority and the endorsement of Pres. Wilson behind it, the measure was sent over to the senate. There it was referred to the banking and currency committee before which hearings on the subject already are in progress. The committee may not be ready to report for several weeks.

The measure would eliminate the present American bank note system under which banks issue currency against government bonds, and establish a currency, to be issued by 12 federal reserve banks based on sound commercial paper, which the government assumes the responsibility of redeeming in gold or lawful money.

It would place practically every phase of banking under the control of a federal reserve board of seven members to be appointed by the president and a council of bankers which would have only advisory powers. The system would be administered through the reserve banks, situated in 12 geographical divisions of the country, capitalized at about $5,000,000 which capital must be subscribed by the banks in the reserve district.

At the eleventh hour the house wrote into the bill a disclaimer of any intention to alter the gold money standard fixed by law.

Altered Little.

Ten days of earnest consideration in the house failed to alter the bill in any particular, and it passed virtually as drawn by Rep. Glass of Virginia, chairman of the house banking and currency committee after conferences with Sen. Owen, chairman of the senate committee; Secy. McAdoo of the treasury department and the president. Throughout the debate republicans and progressives vigorously denounced the methods employed by the democrats in framing the bill, in perfecting its details in caucus. The democratic lines held firm however, and no minority amendments were adopted. On final passage but three democrats voted against the bill.

Sentiment regarding the measure has not yet crystallized in the senate. The senate committee is now hearing interested citizens from all over the country on the principles of the bill. These hearings may continue for several days at least. The committee itself is expected to take weeks in the discussion of the measure, although the administration forces in the senate hope to force an early report to the floor where further extended debate is expected.

A number of invited experts were sent to be heard when the senate committee finished today's hearings and it is expected the public discussion of the measure will continue until early next week. The bill will then be taken up for discussion within the coming month.

No Predictions Made.

Chairman Owen would make no prediction today as to the prospect for action in the senate committee. Emphatic expressions have come from democratic members as to changes they believed necessary in certain features of the bill.

Further criticisms were voiced at today's hearings. William H. S. collector of customs at Philadelphia, said he believed the bill proposed a system worse than that now in operation. In response to questions by Sen. Reed, he said its only valuable points was that it reduced the amount of reserves which national banks were required to keep.

Mr. Berry said he believed the banks would be compelled to borrow back at once the greater part of the reserves that they might contribute to the regional reserve banks.

"Then instead of being reserves to which the whole country would go for money, they would really be elements of weakness in the system," suggested Sen. Reed.

"I think that is so," said Mr. Berry.

The negroes started a fight with their guards at the same time the men in the chair factory threw down their tools and quit.

Peggy's a Bright, Twinkling Star Now

She Landed the Leading Role in "Peg o' My Heart"—Over 400 Girls Who Wanted to Be Stars, Too.

MISS PEGGY O'NEIL

How happy do you think a girl must be, who answered a newspaper appeal, made by a theatrical manager, for a successor to his biggest star—and LANDED THE JOB?

This is the girl—Peggy O'Neil.

Oliver Morosco, the theatrical manager of New York, wanted an actress to play Laurette Taylor's part in a "Peg o' My Heart" company which is soon to take the road, and to prepare herself for other leading roles under the direction of Morosco.

Mrs. Pankhurst a Wonderful Woman, Says Mrs. Belmont

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—If the U. S. immigration authorities attempt to bar Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst from this country they will be displaying woeful ignorance and narrow mindedness.

This statement was made Friday by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, at whose home the famous militant suffragist will stay while in New York. Continuing Mrs. Belmont said:

"Mrs. Pankhurst is the most wonderful woman in the world today. When I was in Paris I saw her daily. She and her daughters show such pluck and courage as I never knew before. They have made donkeys out of the strongest and most famous statesmen in England. They have made the English government and King George the laughing stock of the world."

"Why, the other day Premier Asquith was attacked on the golf links by some militants and it took 15 detectives to rescue him. Wasn't that glorious? He was afraid to appear in court against them and wouldn't prefer charges. The clowns in parliament who are opposed to woman suffrage will soon find themselves in a ticklish position before the people, as suffrage is bound to come and quickly."

CUT HIGH SCHOOL VACATIONS SHORT

Students Will Have But Week at Christmas and No Spring Holiday—School Opens Monday.

Hopes of high school students for a longer vacation were dashed to the ground Friday morning when Principal Sims announced that, despite rumors to the contrary, school would convene Monday morning, Sept. 22, at 8:15 a. m.

Some of the minor details of the finishing process have not been completed, Contractor Christian is working hard and will have the rooms ready for occupancy then. The largest amount of unfinished work is in the auditorium, where the seats have not been completely riveted in. This will be accomplished by the opening date, however.

Many and various were the plans formulated for making up the two weeks of the school year lost by the incompleteness of the new building. It was reported school would be held on Saturday mornings, or said school would be held until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Others thought that the Christmas and spring vacations would be dropped and still others claimed that school would be let out two weeks later in the summer. The final settlement of the question was given out by Principal Sims Friday.

It has been decided to hold school on the Friday after Thanksgiving, the 2nd of January, the first three days before Christmas, which as Christmas falls on Thursday would be holidays, and to eliminate the spring vacation.

The week's vacation between Christmas and New Years will be given as usual.

DENTIST MURET AND PRESTON BELIEVED COUSINS

Advices From Schmidt's Birthplace in Germany States Murderer and Doctor Are Thought Blood Relations.

SUSPICION GROWS THAT SLAYER IS IMPOSTER

Police Still Search For Missing Head of Butchered Girl—Lawyer Begins Planning For Insanity Defense.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—While steps were being taken Thursday to have a jury pass upon the sanity of "Father" Hans Schmidt, bit upon bit of evidence was piling up linking closer and closer the lives of the slayer of Anna Ammiller and his alleged counterfeiting partner, Dr. Ernest Muret.

Muret was the central figure in the day's developments. The priest grew morose in his cell and talked little. Muret appeared in court to plead guilty and be held on the charge of having a dangerous weapon in his possession.

The pseudo dentist who appears from information the authorities already have acquired in their search to have practiced medicine under other names in Chicago, in England, and on the continent, has been thought by the police almost from the beginning to bear some blood relationship to Schmidt. Thus the advices Thursday night from Aschaffenburg, Germany, Schmidt's birthplace, that Muret is now believed to be the murderer's cousin, Adolf Mueller, caused little surprise among the investigators.

It came out also, however, through the discovery of an engraver who has counterfeited Schmidt, that Muret, as he now calls himself, seemingly had far closer knowledge than he has at any time admitted of Schmidt's counterfeiting operations, having admitted Schmidt to the engraver's shop when the plates were secured.

As for Schmidt himself, the many aliases he used led Inspector Faure to suspect that the clerical prisoner might not be the Hans Schmidt of Aschaffenburg, but an imposter. This theory, while somewhat at cross purposes with which brought out the supposed blood relationship between the real Hans Schmidt and Muret, was considered by the inspector worth while following up.

"There is no certainty that this fellow is the real Schmidt," said the inspector. "Schmidt is a natural forger and could easily have fixed up the clerical papers through which he obtained positions in St. Boniface's church and St. Joseph's church."

Schmidt's counsel, Alphonse Koelbke, insists that he was not an imposter. "He told me he was Hans Schmidt, the priest," said the lawyer. Mr. Koelbke began Thursday laying the ground work for an insanity defense of his client. He let District Attorney Whitman know that he purposed asking a court inquiry into Schmidt's sanity.

Another line of defense however, seems likely to be tried and a secondary way. This is an asserted absence of absolute proof of Anna Ammiller's death. Parts of the girl's body cut up by Schmidt and thrown into the Hudson river have been recovered, but the head, which would afford proof positive of identity, still is missing. It is this contingency which is leading to the police to keep up a persistent search for the head of the victim. A diver has been engaged to go over every foot of the river bottom in the vicinity where yesterday a few bodies were dragged to the surface and then lost it, only a strand of human hair remaining on the hook.
